U. S. RECEIVES GOLD OF RUSSIA

Officials Puzzled on Source of Item in Great Bullion Imports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—The regular periodical statement of the federal reserve board, covering imports and exports of gold and silver contained notice of the importation of $339,636 in gold from "Russia in Europe," the first gold to come from Russia since late in 1916.

PUZZLED OVER SOURCE

Officials were puzzled by the item which showed the metal had been received in New York several days ago. Inquiry failed to identify the shipment although reserve board officials believed it must have come from soviet territory.

The unexplained shipment was included in imports aggregating $10,250,000 for the ten days covered by the statement. Of this sum France sent $4,000,000 and Great Britain $5,250,000. South American nations sent $1,835,000.

The shipments from France and England were believed to reflect payments on the Anglo-French loan of $500,000,000. England has sent $91,000,000 since January 1, while France exports to the United States have totaled $6,000,000 this year.

Imports of gold from all countries for the ten days brought total imports for the year to $179,000,000.

Exports for the period amounted to $7,055,000 of which $6,540,000 went to Asiatic countries.

Silver exports exceeded imports, $2,067,000 coming in against $3,011,000 sent out in the ten days reported.
